Narrative

Hoover/23rd:

The outreach team continues to work with one of our veterans [REDACTED]. In the past months, the outreach team and his Veteran Affairs Supported Housing (VASH) worker have submitted a housing application to the Housing Authority for a Veteran Affairs Supported Housing (VASH) permanent housing voucher. However, due to [REDACTED] never receiving his California Identification Card, the application was not accepted by the Housing Authority. Within time of receiving this news, the team made attempts to transport Edwood to the Department of Motor Vehicles in order to have it reissued. [REDACTED] agreed to have his ID mailed to the PATH's address to avoid his mail getting lost again. Our next plan will be to fill out a new application with [REDACTED] Veteran Affairs Supported Housing (VASH) worker once he receives his California Identification Card.

Figueroa / Adams:

[REDACTED] and [REDACTED] are two women who sit across from each other on the bus benches. Although this location is a common area in which the team outreaches, the two women have not been at this location when the team is out in the field. On one separate occasion, when the team drove by this location while transporting another client, we spotted [REDACTED]. However, when the team returned 5 minutes later after dropping the client off, she was gone. The team continues to keep both [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]

17th / Washington:

After many attempts to make contact with people in the RVs, the team successfully connected with a man [REDACTED] who is currently living in an RV at this location. After discussing services and gathering information, he decided to connect to services. The team made an appointment for the following week to complete a Coordinated Entry Service (CES) survey. He is currently in a training program for a better opportunity of employment which will increase his income.

Based on [REDACTED]'s criteria, the team learned he was eligible for the Rapid Rehousing program. The outreach team quickly assisted [REDACTED] with completing a pre-screening application along with gathering and updating the documentation needed. We are currently waiting for an approval response.

Hoover:

[REDACTED] was referred to the Rapid Rehousing due to criteria and eligibility. After gathering and updating his documentation as needed, he completed a pre-screening with the team. The team submitted his application and are now waiting for an approval response.

Based on criteria, a client that we have been continuing to work with by the name of Everret appears to be eligible for our rapid rehousing program. The team assisted him with completing a pre-screening application, which has been submitted. We are currently waiting for an approval response.

39th Underpass:

The team is consistently working with this particular underpass and continues to keep this location on our radar. The team is actively working with 10 people who are following-up with services. However, for the others who are reluctant to engage for services, the team continues to build a relationship in hopes of connecting to services in the future.

Fire Couple: The team was informed quickly about a couple who left this location due to a fire that occurred and have now returned to this location. After re-connecting with the couple and learning they are still seeking services, the team is helping them re-evaluate their goals and create a support plan.

Louisiana Couple: Another couple at this location continues to make progress with saving their income. Their hopes remain to build their income enough to relocate to Louisiana and reunite with their family. The team provides job leads to the partner searching for employment. When the team learned that the woman had been missing her appointments with mental health, the team encouraged and offered transportation to reconnect her. She declined transportation. However, she made an effort on her own and is now maintaining her appointments with mental health.

MAKING IT HOME

Pregnant Couple: The team has been continuously working with a couple who are expecting a baby. The mother of the child was connected with LAHSA (Los Angeles Homeless Authority) and provided a motel voucher. Although the couple is currently in a motel, their tent is being occupied by another person who is reluctant to connect to services. The team continues to work closely with the couple towards permanent housing and gathering documentation as needed.

Although [REDACTED] had difficulties regulating emotionally in our shelter and was discharged, we continued to outreach and provide services. In this month [REDACTED] was approved for DHS (Department of Health Services). The team has gone out at various times to meet with [REDACTED] and completed the necessary forms along with transportation to retrieve documentation needed. We are currently waiting for one last document in order to submit his housing authority application.
